

Post War City Architecture

4 dates that changed design

Want to know why the City of London is suddenly full of tall buildings?
Or just interested in architectural development?

This guided walk is a combination of history and architecture, starting at the iconic Brutalists housing estates in the north of the City and ending near Liverpool Street station.

Meeting place:
Barbican tube station, street level

Places limited, booking essential.
